DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 8-12 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gwyn et al (US. Pat. No. 2,476,145).

Gwyn discloses a method wherein sheets of glass are electrostatically charged (corresponding to the claimed "charging a first glass sheet") and moved along a conveyor to be dusted with a conductive layer of flour which is oppositely charged. After the treatment of the glass sheets in this manner they are stacked in a box (corresponding to the claimed "electrostatically adhering said first sheet to a second glass sheet/forming a composite of two electrostatically adhered glass sheets"). While Gwyn may not specifically state that the combined sheets are further processed and separated, these limitations are not deemed to impart a patentable distinction over Gwyn since it follows that the sheets would obviously be transported and delivered (corresponding to the claimed "processing") to their final destination where they would be unpacked (which would ultimately involve separating/peeling the sheets apart) for a particular use.

Regarding claims 8-10, grounding the glass sheets and the use of a corona source to charge said sheets are all conventional practices with respect to electrostatic charging of materials and, therefore, do not patentably distinguish the claims from the Gwyn reference.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2-7, 13 and 15-17 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

4. Claims 18-22 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed November 3, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

- Applicant asserts that the Office Action, as it relates to the Gwyn reference, suggests that the glass sheets are separated before the processing occurs. However, Examiner respectfully disagrees. The Examiner interprets the claimed "processing" step as corresponding to the "transporting" and "delivering" step that occurs in the Gwyn reference, and believes that the references suggests the stacking of electrostatically-adhered glass sheets, in a shipping box 12, are transported to another location – prior to their being separated. This means that the glass sheets, in the form of a stack, are still adhered to each other while being "processed" (i.e. "transported"). Therefore, it is the Examiner's contention that the Gwyn et al reference is still proper for rejection the relevant claims.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
